PRE-RINSE MIXER

Extra spraying power and the convenience of flexible design are the primary advantages of a pre-rinse mixer. These are great for rinsing dishes that have just arrived in the kitchen, or ones that have been splattered with food and unfortunately set to the side. A pre-rinse mixer boasts strong jets of water able to power-off heavy amounts of food. Its unusually tall and incredibly flexible hose is ideal for reaching around and under large, awkwardly shaped dishes to get into every corner, nook and cranny.

SWIVEL SPOUT

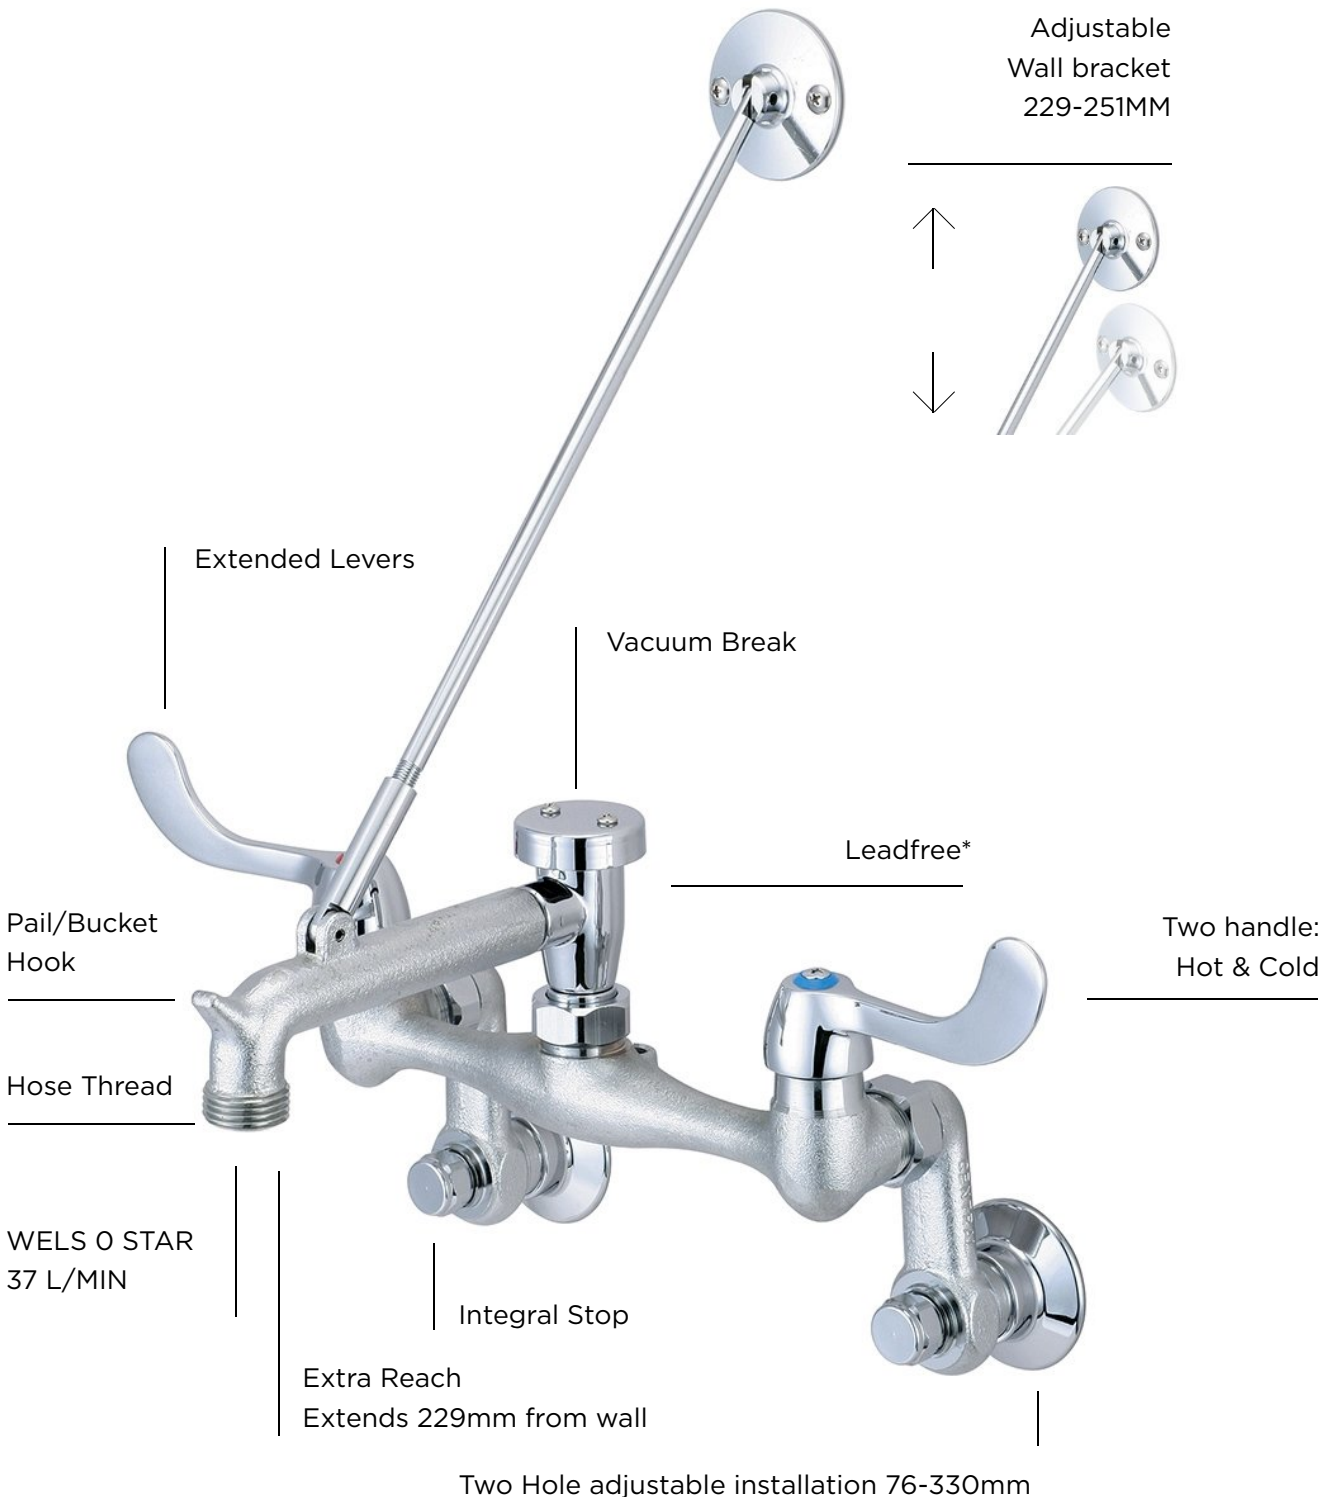

Don't get stuck with a stationary spout if you have multicompartmental sinks or large pots or buckets that need filling. Swivel spouts can move from left to right and work brilliantly for switching from a rinse sink to a washing-up sink. They also work great for larger items that need the space for lifting, where a stationary faucet would just get in the way.

Complies to international standard of leadfree faucets (0.25% or less).

SERVICE SINK MIXER

The disposal of liquid waste is best done in a service sink. Service sink mixer are built to an industrial standard and are wall-mounted to maximize the space needed for the dimensions and weight of buckets and mops. All commercial kitchens must be cleaned daily (even several times a day) and janitorial equipment cannot be cleaned in a sink where food preparation takes place. In kitchens, a service sink faucet is mounted over a specialty service sink for the purpose of rinsing out and filling up mop buckets as well as washing mops and other water-safe cleaning equipment. Central Brass manufactures a Two Handle Wall Mount Service Sink complete with a built-in ultra-convenient pail hook. It is braced for heavy duty with extra wall-mounted support as well.
